Communications Studies, Graduate Certificate
Assessment Report, 2012

Expected Outcomes: demonstrate core competencies

Student should be able to analyze, synthesize, think critically and apply communication theories and methods to different contexts.

Assessment methods

Method: qualifying exam

Upon completions of required classes, students will take a six hour exam which will address their understanding and ability to apply communication theory, introductory statistics, quantitative and qualitative methods. Assessment of the exam will executed by a three person committee.

Findings:

No students have progressed far enough in the program to conduct an assessment at this time.

How did you use findings for improvement?

None

Additional comments:

None